

Director of International Operations

This position is responsible for coordinating the expansion into and managing the operation of our direct sales business in foreign nations. Must be excellent at project management and coordinating the efforts of various professional contributions, such as legal, banking/currency, translations, shipping and logistics, staffing, product development, accounting, and customer service.

Basic Duties:

- Lead and oversee every aspect of the expansion of our business into targeted countries, beginning with Mexico and the Dominican Republic, then further into the Spanish countries of Central and South America, but also into the European Union, parts of Africa, and eventually Asia
- Manage current foreign operations (Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Haiti, Bahamas, St. Lucia)

Skill Requirements:

- At least 5 years in large-scale Project Management
- Some amount of international operational experience
- Speak at least one foreign language, preferably Spanish
- The ability to define what needs to be done and do it, without any handholding or babying
- Able to skillfully work with diverse cultures, diplomatically representing our brand in seamless professionalism
- Ultimately, you must be an organized butt kicker who just flat gets stuff done, and manages to do so without leaving people crying in the aisles behind you
- Take everything seriously except yourself

Position:

This is a full time position in Cary, North Carolina, with competitive benefits. The salary for this position is determined based on candidate's previous work experience, current technical abilities, market salary information, and overall ability to kick the aforementioned butt.

Next Steps:

If you are seeking an opportunity to join a winning team, work in a fast-growing company (double-digit annual percentage growth in revenue at the time of this posting), and develop your career, then LIFE Leadership may be the place for you.

We have the exciting work environment of a start-up, with the longevity of founding entrepreneurs who have over two decades in successful business enterprises. We are looking for someone who is the most interested in being challenged, making a huge contribution, and having a career that really matters in the lives of other people (our customers). We want work at our company to be so fun and stimulating that you hardly realize it's a job.

Additionally, we offer competitive salaries, year-end performance bonuses, a comprehensive benefits package, casual dress code, free drinks provided all day every day, and free gym memberships, among other perks. Our corporate culture stresses integrity, respect, trust, responsibility, having fun, and making a social contribution to society (through our charitable outreaches).

To Apply:

E-mail your questions or submit a resume to Jacqueline Tilma jacqueline.tilma@lifeleadership.com